MESSAGE

It is heartening to learn that Sarvasumana Association is conducting the 7th International Conference on Public Mental Health and Neurosciences (ICPMN – 2020) on December 12-13, 2020. To bring together various stakeholders of the field through a virtual platform for a valued takeaway on the theme 'Functional Genomics of Mind' is laudable.

When we talk of fitness, it is as much about mental as physical. A healthy mind and a sound body are interlinked. Pace and stress of today's lifestyle are often viewed as a factor for the increasing number of lifestyle diseases across societies and nations.

The challenging times of Corona pandemic have brought the spotlight upon mental health issues and it is crucial to look into the issue with a wider perspective. Our emphasis must be on creating an environment of more openness and sensitivity while discussing the issue of mental health.

One effective way towards curing psychological ailments is not to be silent about depression and to discuss issues related to mental health with family members, friends and colleagues. Active lifestyle, Yoga and meditation can be of significant help in overcoming depression.

Yoga helps rejuvenate the body, mind and spirit and ushers in harmony and balance in everyday life. To include a special session of Yoga in the Conference is thoughtful.

Technology, as also medical advancements are constantly transforming the field of healthcare. We must leverage technology to conquer new frontiers in genomics and bioinformatics.

The gathering of experts at the online international Conference will surely discuss and analyse various issues and perspectives related to mental well-being and more. I am sure that the deliberations at the Conference will come up with a practical roadmap for larger benefit.

Best wishes for all success of the Conference.
