Dear Concerns

As already informed, the Affiliation you have acquired from LSSSDC, is valid for 3 years.

Kindly seek a fresh certificate after end of one year. This will not be charged. The new certificate thus issued will be with two years validity.

This is because the job roles are very technical and of lesser volume.

Kindly let us know if any of the KBITS college has not been marked in this mail.

Regards,

Dr Nivedita Murkute

Student: Mr. MOHIT- BSC BGB 1ST YEAR

Participants:

B.Sc. Genetics/Microbiology, B.Sc. CND & B Voc FPN 1ST YEAR

Program Summary:

The Program was mainly to give awareness about Dengue and its prevention, Dengue is a mosquito-borne viral disease that has rapidly spread to all regions of WHO in recent years. Dengue virus is transmitted by female mosquitoes mainly of the species Aedes aegypti and, to a lesser extent, Ae. albopictus. Dengue is widespread throughout the tropics, with local variations in risk influenced by climate parameters as well as social and environmental factors.

The second talk was something interesting about a topic called Disease X: The Next Virus - Disease X is the mysterious name given to the very serious threat that unknown viruses pose to human health. Disease X is on a short list of pathogens deemed a top priority for research by the World Health Organization, alongside known killers like SARS and Ebola.

Program Summary

The nutrition intervention program aimed to promote healthy eating habits among children. The program started with an introductory session, where rapport building was a crucial aspect to make the children feel comfortable and familiar with the program facilitators. To break the ice and make the children more relaxed, games were organized, such as the "passing the ball" game. The children who lost were made to dance and then were subjected to a nutritional assessment.

The nutritional assessment was conducted in three stages, which included anthropometric measurement, clinical examination, and dietary assessment. The aim of the assessment was to gather information about the children's physical and dietary habits, which would help in planning the nutrition education program.

After the assessment, the nutrition education program was conducted, where charts were used to convey important messages about healthy eating habits. To make the information more engaging and memorable for the children, a skit was performed on the topic of "healthy food vs. unhealthy food." The skit helped to drive home the message in a more interactive and enjoyable manner for the students.

In conclusion, the nutrition intervention program was successful in promoting healthy eating habits among children. The children were given bananas and crayons as a token of gratitude for their participation, which made them feel appreciated and valued. By conducting such programs, children can be encouraged to adopt healthy habits from a young age, which would benefit them in the long run.

Appendix III: Accreditation Credentials

What We Do

Founded in 1988, the Accreditation Council for Business Schools and Programs (ACBSP) is a global business education accrediting body and the first organization to offer accreditation to all levels of collegiate business educational degree programs from associate to doctoral. ACBSP ignites a standard of excellence with an accreditation process based on the Baldrige Education Criteria for Performance Excellence. By evaluating aspects of leadership, strategic planning, relationships with stakeholders, quality of academic programs, faculty credentials, and educational support, ACBSP assesses whether or not business programs offer a rigorous educational experience and commitment to continuous quality improvement.

Global Distinction

ACBSP has a global network divided geographically into 11 regions. Staff from the world headquarters of ACBSP, along with leadership from the regions, arrange and present workshops and seminars on issues relevant to the field of business education at a series of regional meetings. These meetings are open to all members. The Associate Degree and Baccalaureate/Graduate Degree Boards of Commissioners responsible for making accreditation decisions, reflect ACBSP's global membership and include representatives from among the 11 regions.

Our Mission

ACBSP's global mission is to pursue a better tomorrow by advancing and recognizing excellence in business education through continuous improvement.

Our Vision

ACBSP's global vision is to see every business program of quality accredited and pursuing continuous improvement.

Our Core Values

- Dynamic Leadership – Business programs and schools should employ ethical, diverse, and inclusive leadership practices that support the pursuit of quality business education. Dynamic leadership includes seeking partnerships that strengthen business-education processes and enhance student learning.
- Quality, Learning-Centered Education – The development of future business leaders is enhanced through quality teaching. Quality instruction includes teaching students with a global perspective on active, lifelong learning and development of problem-solving skills.
- Social Advancement – Business education should emphasize the opportunity to positively improve communities and influence society by prioritizing diversity, equality, and inclusion.
- Organizational Learning – Business programs should pursue regular cycles of planning, execution, assessment, and evaluation of results to improve every process and system. Programs should include clear learning objectives, while considering student needs, the changing environment, and an effective means for gauging student progress.
- Continuous Improvement – Quality business systems, processes, and programs incorporate an evidence-based model of continuous improvement to facilitate excellence in global business education. Business programs performance systems should focus on results that reflect and balance the needs and interests of students and all stakeholders.

Our Commitment to Equality

ACBSP shares a duty with the nation and the world to eliminate the stain that racism has left on society. While these issues do not naturally enter into the purview of accreditation, it is evident they are at the heart of what we must address together. There is much work to do and ACBSP is committed to furthering this pursuit. All of us must look internally and work together to root out the inequities and prejudices that continue to manifest in our culture. Grounded in the mission of ACBSP are our core values which require leadership as a first step for improvement and this principle means more than just leadership in the classroom. It is this guiding vision with respect for all, inclusiveness, and responsibility that is paramount to our role within higher education and in service to our members.
