Semester: 5th Semester

No of students: 40

Dr. Anuradha. M
Principal
Padmashree Institute of Management & Sciences

Objective of the visit

- To understand about the kitchen layout and diet pattern in hospital.
- To understand about nutritional care and dietary counselling methods.
- To learn how to provide diet, recipe preparation and counselling for patients from experienced dietitians.

Outcome of the visit

The visit helped students to understand the role of nutrition in overall health and wellness and also about the importance of healthy eating habits and meal planning. Understand about the management of specific medical conditions with a focus on dietary interventions and use of specialized diets, such as enteral and parenteral nutrition.

The students gain knowledge about the role of the hospital nutrition team, including dietitians and other healthcare professionals, current trends and advancements in the field of clinical nutrition and impact of cultural, social and economic factors on nutrition and food choices. The visit can also provide an opportunity to observe and learn about the practical aspects of nutrition care, such as menu planning, food preparation, and patient education.

FIELD VISIT REPORT

ISKCON

Objective

The objective of this industrial visit was to give the under graduates an exposure in to the business processes like Procurement, Operations, Distribution, Supply chain management and Finance.

Outcome of the visit

A visit to an Akshaya Patra facility was an excellent learning opportunity for management students, as it provided understanding about the organization's management practices and the challenges and opportunities involved in running a large-scale, non-profit operation. The visit helped students to learn about the organization's supply chain management, logistics, and procurement strategies, which are essential for ensuring that the food is prepared and delivered efficiently and cost-effectively. They also gained insights about the organization's financial management practices, including fundraising strategies, cost management, and budgeting, which are essential for the organization's sustainability and growth.

The visit also provided an opportunity for students to interact with the staff and volunteers of Akshaya Patra, who shared their experiences and challenges in managing the organization's operations, and provided insights into the organization's culture and values. It was valuable learning experience for students, as they witnessed and learnt about managing a large-scale, non-profit operation, and gain insights into the management practices and values that drive the organization's success.
